

FIRST REGIMENT IS DRILLED

In command of Colonel Jones, the First Regiment, National Guard of Hawaii, marched through the streets last night, headed by the government band under Captain Berger, and later went through regimental and battalion drill in palace square. The troops were out in blue blouses, khaki trousers and leggings, and made a fine appearance. Owing to the frequency with which the electric cars went through the square some of the evolutions were broken, but throughout the drill was gone through with in a creditable manner, although the regiment had just mobilized after a summer vacation. The crack company F, in command of Captain Sam Johnson, headed the line. A review was held in which the band and drum and fife corps paraded before the regiment, which stood at attention, following which the command marched back to the drill shed, where Colonel Jones stated in brief that although the drill was not what it should have been, yet he knew the troops were somewhat rusty from their long vacation. He announced that some time next month a regimental outing would be held.

Colonists for Hawaii.

Says the Hilo Side Lights: Mr. C. M. Giddings, of Aberdeen, South Dakota, recently made a tour of inspection in the interests of his colony (some twenty or more well-to-do South Dakota farmers) of the islands. He took in the Waiawa colony on Oahu and the Buchholtz and Col. Norris property of the Kona and Kau districts of Hawaii, returning to Honolulu via Hilo. While in Honolulu, the editor of Side Lights obtained for Mr. Giddings an interview with Gov. Dole and the following letter voices the sentiments of the executive:

Executive Chamber, Territory of Hawaii,
Honolulu, July 23, 1902.
Sir: Mr. Giddings has called on me, and I was much interested in talking with him.

I shall promote his proposition to the extent of my ability, feeling that the accession of a colony of real farmers is a matter of great importance to Hawaii and the other islands.

I trust that the enterprise can be carried through.

Very sincerely yours,
(Signed) SANFORD B. DOLE.

Miss Cunha Hurt.

Miss Rosie Cunha met with a painful accident yesterday afternoon while out riding in her new trap, and although she received a bad wound in her cheek which necessitated several stitches being taken, she narrowly escaped severe injuries. Miss Cunha was seated in the trap, which is quite high, and was driving a new horse through the roadway in the Cunha premises at Waikiki toward the park boulevard. The oleander and other bushes bordering the roadway have recently been cut down, leaving the small branches with stubby and sharp ends exposed. The horse either became frightened at the newness of the turnout or at the bushes, for he suddenly turned about, upsetting the vehicle. Miss Cunha was thrown into a clump of bushes, and one of the sharp pointed branches penetrated her right cheek just below the eye. Dr. Herbert was called and treated the ugly wound. Miss Cunha was resting well last evening.
